Institute for Supply Management Pittsburgh Elects New Board of Directors

Five new directors join board; new officers appointed for this year as well

PITTSBURGH (July 28, 2008) – The Institute for Supply Management Pittsburgh (ISM), an organization that supports purchasing professionals in the Pittsburgh area through personal and professional development, has elected five new directors to two-year terms and appointed officers for the coming year.

ISM's five elected officers act as the governing body of ISM. Officers for the year ahead are:

- President, Paul Bucciarelli, vice president/source manager for The PNC Financial Services Group;
- First Vice President, David Dudney, C.P.M, manager of purchasing & capital projects with ATI Allegheny Ludlum and leader of the company's Capital Equipment sourcing efforts;
- Second Vice President, George Bissett, C.P.M, group purchasing agent for the Ohio Valley Operations of Consol Energy;
- Executive Director Lisa Romango, re-elected as executive director; and
- Secretary/Treasurer, Paula Massey, reelected as secretary/treasurer.

ISM's five new elected directors will serve two-year terms for 2008-2010. They are:

- Teresa Collins, inventory manager specializing for Allied Building Products Corporation's distribution center in Toledo;
- Nicole Costello, buyer for FedEx Ground operating network;
- Kenneth G. Micire, C.P.M.; retired regional manager for contract sales and service of US Airways;
- Ron Summerhill, C.P.M, purchasing manager for Latrobe Specialty Steel; and
- Michael J. Urick, program manager at Duquesne University's Center for Corporate & Executive Education (CCEE).

In addition, the following ISM members continue their service on the board:

- Ms. Dianna Sroka, purchasing agent, Adams Manufacturing;
- Mr. Brian Conley, purchasing & facilities manager, NEP Broadcasting LP;
- Mr. Patrick Cancro, C.P.M., retired Penn State University Assistant Professor;
- Dr. Soheila Lunney, C.P.M., President, Lunney Advisory Group; and
- Mr. James Golden, C.P.M., Senior Project Buyer, Siemens Energy & Automation.
